DETAILED ACTION

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. § 121:

I. Claims 1-17 and 36-37, drawn to an antibody that binds to dendritic cells (DCs) and a composition thereof, classified in Class 530, subclass 388.7.

II. Claim 21, drawn to a transgenic animal, classified in Class 800, subclass 8.

III. Claims 18-20 and 22, drawn to a hybridoma obtained from a transgenic animal and a method of making said hybridoma, classified in Class 800, subclass 4.

IV. Claims 23-26, drawn to a bispecific molecule, classified in Class 530, subclass 387.3.

V. Claims 27-35 and 38-39, drawn to a molecular conjugate, classified in Class 530, subclass 350.

VI. Claims 40 and 41, drawn to a nucleic acid, classified in Class 435, subclass 69.

VII. Claims 42-46, drawn to method for targeting an antigen to a DC comprising administering a molecular conjugate to a subject, classified in Class 424, subclass 133.1.

VIII. Claims 47 and 48, drawn to method of preventing binding of a pathogen to a DC comprising contacting a DC with an antibody, classified in Class 424, subclass 153.1.

2. Invention I-VI are different products. They are distinct because their structures and/or modes of action are different. Therefore, the Invention are patentably distinct.

3. The nucleic acid of Invention VI is related to the antibody of Invention I by virtue of encoding same. However, nucleic acids and polypeptides are physically and functionally distinct chemical entities. Therefore, the Inventions are patentably distinct.

4. Inventions V and VII are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (M.P.E.P. § 806.05(h)).

In the instant case, the product as claimed can be used in materially different processes, such as in vitro binding assays.

5. Inventions I and VIII are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (M.P.E.P. § 806.05(h)).

In the instant case, the product as claimed can be used in materially different processes, such as in vitro ELISA assays.

6. This application contains inventions drawn to patentably distinct species. Should Applicant elect either Group I or VI, Applicant is further required under 35 U.S.C. § 121 to elect:

A) a specific antibody or polynucleotide encoding a specific antibody,

B) and list all Claims readable thereon including those subsequently added. Currently Claims 1-15 and 40-41 are generic.

7. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

The different antibodies comprise discrete sequences that would likely bind different epitopes. Therefore, the species are independent and patentable over one another.

8. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

9. Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed.
